

Appendix 2: Photographs of representative streetscapes in areas of Fayetteville developed before 1948

This appendix presents streetscape photography of sections of Fayetteville that developed during the historic period (before 1948). The images provide an overall sense of how different historic neighborhoods feel and how historically intact they are. The appendix is organized alphabetically by street name. Areas developed as new residential subdivisions between 1920 and 1940 (Brooklea Heights, Collincroft, and Huntleigh Park) are illustrated in the subdivision section (Appendix 3) instead. Those platted in this same period, but mainly not developed until after World War II such as Springside and Wellwood Manor, are also illustrated in Appendix 3.
